

CLIPPINGS FOR THE MIKADO.

STAMFORD WHITE BUSY AGAIN—
—ANNOYING, SAYS UCHIDA.Backer of Cartoon Show That Wasn't Aims to Impress American Newspapers on Japan's Rule—Special Envoy, Gold
Cover and 100 Statemen I. Embryo.

S. Uchida, Japanese Consul-General to this city, heard yesterday that Mr. Stamford White has been sending out glowing letters to the Mikado, a gold embossed book of clippings from American newspapers covering the Russo-Japanese War. At first Mr. Uchida was annoyed, then he laughed, and appeared to regard Mr. Stamford White and his book of clippings as a joke.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Uchida, "I caused an investigation of this matter to be made. From a report submitted to me, and coming from an entirely reliable source, I have to say once more that the enterprise of Mr. Stamford White is not one which I can ignore. I told him that I was about a month ago. Then I got an interesting letter from Mr. White on July 27."

Mr. Uchida showed this letter, addressed to him:

We observe that you are quoted in the New York SUN of this morning as having investigated this proposition and that you can not comment on it. We are not seeking nor have we sought a commendation from you. But we do insist that you shall immediately state in detail what, if anything, has led you to imply in your statement to the SUN that this project is not worthy of its claims to be. If I do not hear from you within forty-eight hours I shall turn the whole matter over to our attorneys.

Very truly,
STAMFORD WHITE

Mr. Uchida did not lose any sleep over this communication. He didn't hear from "our attorneys." He stuck the letter in a pigeonhole and forgot about it until yesterday, when a letter from Mr. Stamford White to the SUN was shown to him. This letter was decorated with the name of Mr. Stamford White and the following head:

"Tribute to His Imperial Majesty, The Emperor of Japan, From the Leading Newspapers of America."

It stated that a press clipping bureau was preparing a book of newspaper clippings for presentation to the Emperor of Japan, covering the Russo-Japanese War. The letter went on to say:

A committee of 100 leading statesmen and other eminent citizens will present the book to the Japanese Emperor through the Mikado's specially appointed envoy. As your paper will be the first to publish the thousands of clippings, we would like to receive a letter from you to be embodied in the book. The letter should contain a greeting to the Japanese Emperor or any other points you feel would be appropriate. Your letter need not necessarily refer to the war or the Japanese. But it should develop on the theme of the American newspapers in dealing with the struggle between Japan and Russia. Every item printed or on the verge of being printed in your paper will be inserted in the book of clippings in the order of publication according to date and each item will be properly credited. Tiffany will design and make the gold embossed book for the cover and altogether the book will be a masterpiece of art and a fitting tribute to the energy and genius of the American press.

This was signed by Stamford White.

"Representatives of the Government know nothing about the scheme," said Mr. Uchida, "and certainly the Mikado has designated no envoy for such a purpose."

Stamford White, who wishes to put the Mikado wise to the power of the press, was not in the city yesterday, according to a person at the Japanese consulate, who said he was Frank A. Burrelle. Really, said he, Mr. White was the one to see about the matter, although he would do the best he could answering questions.

Who are the committee of 100 leading statesmen and other eminent citizens? Well, Mr. Burrelle couldn't just remember. He couldn't think of any names right off the bat. The whole matter was in embryo, so to speak. He thought 100 leading statesmen might be rounded up at the right time. Here is what Mr. Burrelle thought. Mr. White, he said, thought it would be nice to let the Mikado know how powerful is the American press, and advertising the clipping bureau was the basis of the scheme. How much money had been received from letters? Well, that was nobody's business, said Mr. Burrelle. Also it wasn't anybody's business how much the "tribute" was going to cost. No, Tiffany hadn't yet contracted to make the cover. That seemed to be in embryo also, although some correspondence had passed on the subject.

"As for Mr. Uchida," said Burrelle, "we think we know why he is objecting. When Mr. White wrote him a letter asking him to state in detail why he objected to the scheme or attorneys would see about it. Mr. White didn't understand the law, but he was a number of business men, rich business men, who have received letters from Stamford White asking them to contribute a "centime" to be included in the wonderful book of clippings, happened to remember a Stamford White who was connected with an enterprise that brought out considerable unfavorable comment in March, 1904. This enterprise was also boosted by means of verbose letterheads and was called "The Newspaper Cartoonists' Association." An exhibition of cartoons and sketches was to take place at the Fifth Avenue Hotel but didn't. For from $25 to $100 you could get a friendly cartoon of yourself hung in this gallery of masters."

RUNAWAYS ROUNDED UP.

Young Brooklynites in Search of Adventure
Are Guests of Springfield Police.

Three runaway Brooklyn boys who were picked up by the police in Springfield, Mass., Friday night are wondering what punishment will be meted out to them when they are brought home to-day. They are Arthur Clarke, 13 years old, of 64 Ralph avenue; Robert Schaefer, 12 years old, of 1009 Putnam avenue, and William Fiero, 11 years old, of 1483 Broadway.

With a capital of less than $20, a supply of ammunition and a 22-caliber revolver, the boys started out on Wednesday on a bear hunting trip to Old Brookfield, where young Clarke has relatives. It was the intention to shoot a few Indians on the way, and when they left a crowd of admiring youngsters wished them the best of luck.

Their parents learned of their departure and tried to overtake them at the railroad station, but failed. The mothers of the three had worried themselves, when a policeman in Springfield came across the youngsters, whose capital had given out. The chief of police notified the Brooklyn authorities by telephone and the parents of the boys left last night for Springfield. It is said that several slippers have been prepared to welcome them.

Car Hits Ice Wagon: One Dead.

BUFFALO, Aug. 26.—Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning a Jefferson street trolley car bound for the farms and running at high speed collided with an ice wagon. Both vehicles were wrecked and Thomas Todd, who was on the step at the rear of the ice wagon, was killed outright and William Collo, the driver of the wagon, was injured internally, while Stanislaus Budewski, the trolleyman on the trolley car, sustained a fracture of the right leg. Collo may die.

Magistrate Nanner Must Appoint Clerks.

Supreme Court Justice Burr in Brooklyn has granted a peremptory writ of mandamus ordering Magistrate Nanner to appoint at once five clerks in the Myrtle avenue court or to appear on Sept. 4, and show cause why he should not do so.

WOMAN WASN'T AFRAID OF NEGRO

Commandered Cab When He Knocked Her
Down and Stole Her Pocketbook.

Lillian Williams is the night cashier in a downtown restaurant. About 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning she started for her home, at 54 West Sixty-fifth street.

In the same car with her on an elevated train sat a big negro, who persistently stared at her. She noticed that he took particular notice of a diamond ring she wore. She removed the ring and put it in her pocketbook, in which she had $20, with which she intended to pay part of the funeral expenses for her mother, who died recently.

At Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue she left the train. The negro followed her. Half way down the stairs he came up behind her and tore the pocketbook from her grasp. Then he threw her down and ran to the street.

With a quick and quick wit, she rushed after him and jumped into a cab at the corner.

"Catch that thief!" she shouted to the driver, who whipped his horse to top speed. The negro ran to Sixty-seventh street and turned east, heading for Central Park shrubbery.

At Central Park West the negro turned north, looking for a park gateway. Both the driver and Miss Williams had been yelling for help, and Policeman O'Connell of the West Sixty-eighth street station came out of a side street. O'Connell headed the car off and grabbed him before he could unlimber a revolver that was found in his hip pocket.

The prisoner said he was William Peters, 28 years old, of 455 Sixth avenue. He still had the pocketbook in his possession, but the ring, which was worth $85, and $10 of the money were missing.

Peters was arraigned in the West Side police court and pleaded guilty. He was held in $2,000 bail for trial.

AUTUMN IN THE ADIRONDACKS.

More People Than Ever Before Await the Beauties Painted by Jack Frost.

LAKE PLACID, Aug. 26.—A few years ago the advent of autumn found the great Adirondack wilderness deserted except for a few enthusiastic fishermen and hunters waiting until the game laws would permit them to enter the woods. But now the autumn had life giving and health promoting properties.

Gradually the guests at the hotels pronounced the beauties painted by Jack Frost. They were the first to discover that the air of this mountain region in the autumn had life giving and health promoting properties.

But all of this is changed now. The rich folks who have built camps were first to discover that the North Woods were at their best after the first frost. They were the first to linger and watch the unfolding of the chromatic symphony composed by Jack Frost. They were the first to discover that the air of this mountain region in the autumn had life giving and health promoting properties.

It is astonishing what a transformation is effected in the landscape hereabouts by the first frost.

WHAT WAS THE COP'S MOTIVE?

Seuth Swears to One Thing, But Doesn't
Back It Up—McAdoo to Hear of It.

Mark Silva of 245 East Forty-fifth street was arraigned in the Yorkville police court yesterday on a charge of violating the Tenement House act. In his formal complaint Detective Greenbaum of the East Fifty-first street station, who made the arrest, declared that after reading an advertisement in a German newspaper he went to the woman's rooms and obtained the necessary evidence on which to arrest her.

"Can you swear it is a tenement house the woman lives in?" asked Lawyer Nugent. "No, I cannot," Greenbaum replied. "What's that?" You don't know that it is a tenement house?" said Magistrate Cornell, after reading Greenbaum's affidavit.

Greenbaum said he couldn't tell what kind of a building it was. "This is astonishing and disgraceful," said the Magistrate. "You have paid money and obtained the necessary evidence for a very good cause. I gave you twenty-four hours to find out if the house is a tenement and you have not done so. I don't know what your motive is, but I am going to send a copy of the testimony to the police commissioner."

"I agree for the woman's discharge," said her counsel.

"She is discharged, as there is no case against her," announced the Court.

HUGGED A DETECTIVE.

Who Then Discovered That He Was Minus
$200—Nervous Flee of His Lawyer.

Detective Tunney, with Detectives Shea and Curry of the West Forty-seventh street station, was standing in front of Dowling's Café, at Forty-third street and Seventh avenue, early yesterday morning when a young woman who wore a red picture hat drove up in a cab. She asked Tunney to have a drink. As Tunney was helping her out of the cab she threw her arms around him.

Tunney discovered after he had talked with her for a moment that $20 had been taken from his pocket. With the help of Detective Shea he tried the missing $20 from her fist.

She said she was Annie Miller of 260 West Thirty-eighth street. Lawyer James E. Smith, who appeared for her in the West Side police court yesterday, said he intended to show that the money was "phony" and that no crime had been committed. He got an adjournment until Monday afternoon, Magistrate Mayo holding the woman in $2,000 bail.

GRAP-NUTS.

WRONG SORT

Perhaps Plain Old Meat, Potatoes and Bread may Be Against You for a Time.

A change to the right kind of food can lift one from a sick bed. A lady in Welden, Ill., says:

"Last Spring I became bed-fast with severe stomach trouble, accompanied by sick headache. I got worse and worse until I became so low I could scarcely retain any food at all, although I tried every kind. I had begun to completely despair, had given up all hope and thought I was doomed to starve to death. Till one day my husband, trying to find something I could retain, brought home some Grape-Nuts."

"To my surprise the food agreed with me, digested perfectly and without distress. I began to gain strength at once, my flesh (which had been flabby) grew firmer, my health improved in every way and every day, and in a very few weeks I gained 30 pounds in weight. I liked Grape-Nuts so well that for months I ate no other food, and always felt as well satisfied after eating as if I had sat down to a fine banquet."

"I had no return of the miserable sick stomach nor of the headaches that I used to have when I ate other food. I am now a well woman, doing all my own work again, and feel that life is worth living."

"Grape-Nuts have been a god-send to my family; it surely saved my life and my two little boys have thriven on it wonderfully. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

There's a reason.

MORE PANICKY QUARANTINES.

YELLOW JACK AT GULFPORT,
MISS., CAUSES NEW SCARE.

This Will Be Another Gulf Sunday in the Fever Zone—Italian Political Leader Is Sent to Jail for Interfering with the Marine Hospital Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 26.—The appearance of yellow fever at Gulfport, Miss., the railroad and commercial center for the Mississippi Gulf coast, and its reappearance at Lake Providence, just across the river from Mississippi, have sent another wave of panicky quarantines through that State. Gulfport is only a few miles from Mississippi City, and great fear has been entertained for a week past that the disease would spread there. It is also the headquarters of the Mississippi quarantine forces, the quarantine by the other coast towns who render the work more difficult. There are but three cases in Gulfport. They are thought to have come from Mississippi City, but the origin of the disease has not yet been definitely determined.

Lake Providence had an attack of the yellow fever early in the season and the most strenuous efforts were made to stamp it out, apparently with success. The entire Italian population of the town were sent to the detention camp for ten days, until it was determined that they were free from fever. They were then allowed to return to town, when the fever broke out anew among them. What is causing the people on the Mississippi side of the river much apprehension is the fact that there is a large colony of Italians there who have been in close and intimate relations with the Lake Providence Italians.

The result of this news has been a general stiffening of quarantine throughout Mississippi, Yokelburg adopting a modified non-intercourse plan and Jackson, which had been very sane on this subject, quarantining against Memphis on the story that an Italian woman named Cuccia had been taken sickly there with the yellow fever soon after arrival in New Orleans.

The Mississippi State Board of Health refused to quarantine Memphis in this case, the Memphis authorities claiming that the woman contracted the disease somewhere else.

The great majority of the people in southern Mississippi refuse to believe that the disease in Mississippi City is yellow fever, and the health officers and Marine Hospital Service have been roundly denounced for so reporting. It has been found necessary for all the physicians to join in a card expressing confidence in the Marine Hospital Service, and declaring that there can be no question as to the character of the fever on the Mississippi coast.

The situation continues to improve in New Orleans and public confidence is being rapidly restored. This was shown to-day in the boom in local stocks and the announcement that a number of big building contracts that had been temporarily withheld had been let to-day. The confidence was based on the belief that Dr. White would be able to carry out his program and get rid of the fever next month. It was decided to-day to make a complete sanitary census of the city, the condition of every building being reported.

Another appeal was made on citizens to fumigate their houses with sulfur to-morrow or Monday, and to fumigate at least one room in each house to-day. Dr. Boyce, the English expert, dean of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, where English physicians are equipped for cholera, typhoid and yellow fever, after having made a thorough examination of the fever situation here, declared it good, that the people of New Orleans have undertaken a great work, but are bound to win. Dr. Boyce believes that the work being done will be of great benefit to the whole world. He considered the organization for fighting the fever perfect.

The only danger is a rainy September. If a drought prevails in September it means, in the opinion of Dr. White, the early and certain crushing out of the fever. But a rainy September will greatly increase the work and the danger.

The school board decided to-day to open the public schools on Monday, Sept. 4, in the Philip School, which is in the heart of the infected section and patronized mainly by Italians.

Frank Danzoni, the political leader of the Italian colony, and who has put the Marine Hospital Service to great inconvenience by stirring up his people against the sanitary rules and regulations of the Marine Hospital Service to-day. A mob of threatening Italians followed the police to the jail. All men opposing the health officers in their enforcement of the law will be judged. The trouble about shipping bananas from New Orleans has been settled by transferring the business to Port Chalmette, immediately below New Orleans. This was proposed a week ago to meet the order of Surgeon-General Wyman against banana shipments from this city, but the St. Bernard authorities would not permit it. They have now withdrawn their opposition.

There were ten deaths to-day and forty-seven new cases were reported.

I KILLED HIM, SAYS WIFE.

Authorities Find No Trace of Poison and Will Examine Her Mental State.

BUFFALO, Aug. 26.—John A. Boser, proprietor of a little dry goods store, died yesterday after a week's illness which, it is said, had been diagnosed by two physicians as acute indigestion and heart disease.

This morning his wife, Carrie, requested an interview with Police Captain R. Egan. She said she had killed her husband and intended to give him a dose of arsenic, but that when she could not put up with his conduct any longer she had given him a dose of arsenic.

An autopsy was performed on the body, but no traces of poison were found. "The woman still insists that she poisoned her husband and acts rationally, but an examination has been ordered to ascertain her mental condition."

SEVENTY CENTS, PLEASE.

Men Who Were Carried Past Their Station
Get Biffs From the Railroad.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—Thomas J. Downey and John Joughlin of Stamford got bills to-day from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for 70 cents transportation from New York to Stamford.

They were carried from South Norwalk by Stamford the other day through a blunder of a colored porter, and they refused to pay for the ride. The porter, who was a colored man, was carried back to Stamford and after much haggling got it. They received notes from Assistant Passenger Agent C. E. of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company 70 cents each.

ASYLUM DOCTOR KILLED.

Three Guards Under Arrest for the Murder of Jackson.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 26.—W. L. Smith, B. E. Johnson and J. M. Huff, guards at the North Texas asylum for the insane at Terrell, were arraigned to-day before Justice T. L. Frank, charged with killing Dr. J. W. Jackson of the asylum last Wednesday night. Dr. Jackson died from the effects of a gunshot wound in the head and chest. Justice Frank, after hearing such testimony as was presented to-day, said the accused men in $200 bonds each to answer to the Terrell county grand jury.

AFTER MARRIAGE BROKERS.

District Attorney Thinks Some of Them
Work With Professional Husband.

From the number of complaints that have been made by women who say that they were induced by East Side marriage brokers to marry men who already had wives, the District Attorney's office believes that there is a gang of men working in conjunction with certain marriage brokers. These men will marry any woman of a woman, get whatever money they have and then desert them.

A number of women who have been caught by these men have made complaints to the District Attorney's office, and these cases are being investigated. In each case the women have had practically the same story to tell—a visit to a marriage broker, who introduced a man anxious for a wife; a marriage and then the disappearance in a few days of the husband and the woman's money.

One of the stories being investigated is that of Cecilia Spalinger, an servant, who lived at 410 East Sixth street. About a month ago, she says, she decided that she ought to be married. She went to Max Tumor, a marriage broker, at 83 Rivington street. She told him she wanted a husband.

"This is a piece of golden luck for you," he is said to have told her. "Every marriage contract here is full of happiness."

Soon after that she met Max Silverman, who is also known as Max Stucknick. He told her that he had an income of from $8,000 to $10,000 a year. She wanted some evidence of his wealth, however.

One day he produced a check, payable to him, for $1,000. She said that she had no proof that the check was genuine. He told her that he would convince her that he had money. The next time he saw her he had a passbook on a bank which purported to show that he had $1,000 on deposit.

If that hadn't convinced Cecilia, she was very much impressed one day when he took her for a walk. They stopped in front of a saloon at Pike and Madison streets.

"That is my saloon," said Silverman.

"Fine," said Cecilia. "Let's go in and look at it."

Oh, no," protested Silverman. "I couldn't think of it. It is against the law for a future wife, must not be arrested."

That was enough for Cecilia, and she married Silverman. It was at a busy hour of the day and the saloon was doing a good business. "See all those customers," continued Silverman. "Every one of them spends from 15 to 25 cents each."

That was enough for Cecilia, and she married Silverman, who lived with her for four days at 125 East Tenth street. One day—the last of the four—she had a sudden demand for money. Cecilia had $400. He needed just that amount. Could he have it? With pleasure, she said. He never came back.

The woman's attorney says he has evidence that Silverman married other women. The case against him will probably be presented to the Grand Jury next week.

MISSING ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Schooner Emma C. Hutchinson May Be Lost With Crew of Six.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—Somewhere between here and Vermilion, possibly on the bottom of the lake, is the schooner Emma C. Hutchinson, operated by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The fate of her crew of a dozen men, in the event the vessel is lost, is unknown.

The Hutchinson, an old wooden bark, left Huron last Saturday to come to Cleveland. She was seen at Vermilion Thursday at 6 P. M. headed for Cleveland, but has not been seen since. As she should have arrived the same night, fear was felt for the safety of the boat as early as Friday morning. There was a heavy sea all of Friday, and if the vessel sank it is unlikely that her crew escaped.

The schooner was in tow of the tug Peter Smith. An unconfirmed report which day at 6 P. M. headed for Cleveland, but has not been seen since. As she should have arrived the same night, fear was felt for the safety of the boat as early as Friday morning. There was a heavy sea all of Friday, and if the vessel sank it is unlikely that her crew escaped.

MIDWIFE ARRESTED.

One of the City's Firemen May Be Involved in Death of Young Woman.

Mrs. Altin Pritchman,
